FRIDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1915

There is no election excitement in Canfield. Apparently candidates don't care a continental about being called upon to shoulder the burdens of office.

The engagement of President Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. Norman of Washington, D. C., has been announced and the wedding will take place about holiday time.

Men who travel in all parts of the United States find public sentiment so strongly in favor of President Wilson that they declare when election time comes he will carry every state in the union.

There are numerous gentlemen of republican proclivities in Youngstown who are trimming their sails to get into the race for county offices next year. A candidate for recorder remarked on the street the other day, "I am one of nine good men who want the job."

President Wilson in a formal statement says he will vote in New Jersey for woman suffrage. He also declared that woman suffrage should not be made a party question, and expressed the belief that the question should be settled by states and not by the national government.

Niles and Warren after years of rivalry are beginning to show evidence of that love which Jonathan bore David and it will not be surprising to shortly find them pulling together in an effort to make one big town and wrest from Youngstown the glory of being the largest city in the Mahoning valley.

The first of the world's championship games will be played in Philadelphia Friday afternoon between the Boston Americans and Philadelphia Nationals. Base ball this season has not commanded the usual attention and the national game may never regain its old-time popularity. The world's series, however, is certain to create some enthusiasm.

Mahoning county "drys" are active and have thoroughly organized for the state-wide campaign now holding attention. Just what the "wets" are doing to defeat the prohibition movement is not so plain but it is safe to presume that in every voting precinct in the county they have men on duty to see that their cause is looked after. Neither side will be caught napping.

BLANCO

Oct. 6—Mrs. Orris Mead and son Dana spent Sunday with Clyde Orr and family of Rosemont.

H. E. Kale and family were Sunday visitors at Eli Rakestraw's in Berlin Center.

Miss Marie Williamson spent Sunday with Miss Zella Kale.

Merton Porter spent the week-end with his parents in Youngstown.

PEACE INVOLUBLE.

Through a valley of blackest night,
With no single star to guide me,
I could struggle back to the light,
If my love but stood beside me;
And my love—in storm or in stress,
Fortunes frowning or beguiling,
Though fate punish or caress,
He shall look—and find me smiling.
Pray what can add to the heart
When one lives, and loves and is young?
Shall the sudden teardrops start
At the stab of a venomous tongue?
Shall one sigh for the lack of wealth
When the heart holds hidden treasure,
When the blood in one's veins spells
"Health,"
And the feet trip love's own measure—
Nay, life shall flow like a song
With a sweet refrain to charm us,
No grief shall prevail for long us,
Nor evil have power to harm us.
Who cares for the winter's cold,
Or the heat of summer weather?
The long while yet to grow old—
And we'll travel the road together!
—New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN

A movement has been started among members of the local bar to provide an additional common pleas judge for Mahoning county. The creation of another judgeship in this county must come by a special act of the state legislature. Those who are conversant with the facts claim there is ample need of a third judge. At present the local bench is occupied by Judges W. P. Barnum and W. S. Anderson. Judge Robinson, who has been in the habit of holding court here the greater part of each year, resides in Portage county. In order to get an assignment for that purpose from the chief justice of the state supreme court.

There were numerous men in this city who all along contended that the grand jury, which adjourned last week, would find no bill against those who engaged in pool selling at the Southern park August race meet. And they were right sufficient evidence not being brought forward to warrant indictments. Among the men indicted were William and Walter Wright, brothers, of Sebring, for killing James Gallagher. They are charged with first degree murder. Edward Peebles, former deputy state marshal, was indicted for shooting at Andrew Schuster with intent to kill. Fred Stanford was indicted for attempting to criminally assault seven-year-old Minnie Miller of Ellsworth township.

Legal proceedings have been commenced against the Youngstown & Southern railroad which runs from this city to Leetonia, the action being started by a New York Trust Co. It is rumored that the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad Co. will build extensive car and machine shops near the city.

A local insurance man remarked on the street the other day that no insurance whatever was carried on the two million dollar county court house. Naturally he expressed the opinion that this was not wise on the part of the commissioners as there is surely great risk from outside exposure even though there be no danger from fire within.

Smallpox has not been wiped out in this city, three patients still being under treatment. Physicians have been warned to be on the lookout for new cases.

The grand jury investigated 118 cases and returned 30 indictments covering nearly every crime on the calendar. It is very evident that the hot fight in this city will center on the election of mayor. Both candidates are well known, able and popular. W. T. Gibson has been a practicing attorney for many years and served the city well as mayor some years ago. Carroll Thornton is a thorough-going business man who promises a business administration if elected.

When Uncle Joe Butler returned home from New York the other day he brought with him a check for $50,000. H. C. Frick's contribution to the McKinley memorial in Niles.

Paul Huxley is out as county liquor commissioner and Mr. Owens is in his place, but the row kicked up over making the change is likely to be a troublesome factor in republican politics in this city for a long time to come. Huxley's friends aver that he was double-crossed and those responsible for his ousting must suffer when they put up their heads for official places.

Not much is heard these days about the jitneys making big inroads in the income of the electric lines, but the jit is still here, and in increased numbers, and the chances are all are making money or they would not stay in the game.

One by one the old frame shacks on Federal street are disappearing and some day that thoroughfare will present the appearance it should have long ago assumed.

Much money has come to Youngstown through speculation during the past few months. But the coin may not always head this way, especially if a bad break in the market comes, and stranger things have happened.

"Soda water will be in a glass" is a newspaper heading used in connection with mention of a new law making it necessary to sterilize glasses used at soda fountains. Ten cents a glass is nothing new in this city, that having been the price in most of the better places for some time.

The will is a temperance debate in Trinity M. E. Church next Sunday afternoon.

Automobile and motorcycle accidents in and near the city continue to be of frequent occurrence. And as the number of machines increases so will the number of accidents.

A meeting of the county bar association was held Monday at the courthouse when resolutions on the death of attorney Noble Anderson were adopted, paying high tribute to his memory.

Mrs. S. C. Rook, a pioneer resident of the city, on Monday celebrated her 91st birthday anniversary. She enjoys excellent health.

According to figures submitted by enumerators East Youngstown has nearly doubled in population since 1910, the present population being 9,750.

The question of whether the county clerk can order needed supplies without making application for same through the office of the county commissioner has been put up to Prosecutor A. M. Henderson to answer.

Mrs. Sarah Stoddard McNutt, the oldest native born woman of Youngstown township, died Wednesday morning at her home on the Boardman road, aged 94 years. She had been as well as usual after eating breakfast, which she had prepared, sat down in a chair and soon expired. She is survived by two sons, William and Lemuel Eckman, children by her first husband. Deceased was a sister of the late Lemuel Foster. Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon with burial in Oak Hill cemetery.

Building operations in the city are dragging a little.

Another damage case for $25,000 has been started in court against Idera Park Toboggan Co. as a result of the accident on the dip-the-dips last May.

EAST CANFIELD STREET

Mrs. Rachel Yeager entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. George Fink and sons Carl and Paul and daughter Mildred. Mrs. Fred Baier and daughter Mary of New Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. John Bartholomew of Ellsworth, Ezra Yeager and family and Mr. and Mrs. Heman Yeager of Berlin township.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crum spent Saturday and Sunday in Girard with the former's mother who has been seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Yeager spent Sunday with E. O. Kierl and family in Canfield.

SALEM

It is likely steps will be taken to prevent the annual payment for the paving of McKinley avenue until the work is satisfactorily finished.

Dr. Church of this city has been appointed by the grand master to act as chaplain at the laying of the cornerstone of the new Masonic temple in Alliance next Saturday afternoon.

Tuesday was clean-up day in the city and the streets are as clean as a new pin. And it should now be easy to keep them in that condition.

Since the new chamber of commerce was organized the city has given much evidence of having taken on new life. A strong pull together will accomplish wonders in any community, a fact too frequently lost sight of in these days of keen competition and petty jealousies.

Temperance people in this city are lined up for the battle of state-wide prohibition. And they see it, Ohio will be in the dry column soon after the November election. But such a victory will not be won until after the hardest kind of a fight.

Capt. John Black has resigned as head of the local Salvation Army on account of his health and lack of support of his family and will go to Akron. He has asked for contributions of household effects for the use of his family.

Frank Manulla of Niles has been awarded the contract to build the new storm sewer on East Main street and Broadway.

The annual homecoming harvest festival Friday and Saturday will no doubt attract crowds to the city. And it is certain there will be a world of fun and frolic.

The grand jury in session at Lisbon last week returned 35 indictments. The old jail, which has been condemned by many grand juries, is so bad that the grand jury will seek the aid of the governor in compelling the county to build a new prison.

There are 1,770 pupils enrolled in the city public schools and all buildings are greatly overcrowded. Next year the new Garfield avenue high school buildings will afford much relief.

Pearl Weigand, aged 6, suffered with toothache and the gum was lanced. Blood-poisoning developed and death resulted a week after the tooth became troublesome.

Thos. Cadwallader of this city, who has been paying his wife $4 a week pending the hearing of her petition for a divorce, has been ordered by the court to pay her $50 to assist in prosecuting her case for divorce.

John Bova of this city was indicted by the grand jury for playing pool for money and running a pool room where gambling is permitted.

A few loads of ashes would help smooth the pavement on Garfield avenue.

People are looking forward to the time when the rubber plant will begin operations. It is believed that this will be one of the best industries the city ever has had.

A big banner stretched across Main street near Broadway announces the harvest homecoming festival for Friday and Saturday.

Another effort is being made to turn the old Baptist graveyard on Depot street into a public playground.

The Youngstown Teachers' Association on the program of the Northeastern Ohio Teachers' Association which will be held in Cleveland Friday and Saturday, Oct. 22 and 23. It is possible the schools will be closed Friday for the meeting.

Clark Deville, aged 34, died Monday after an illness of several days.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tescher on Monday celebrated their golden wedding. The couple came from Switzerland and settled in Salem in 1864 and were married one year later. Mr. Tescher, who has the distinction of being the only survivor in Salem of the battle of Gettysburg, is 78 years old and his wife is 73.

There were 24 arrests in the city during September, 11 of them being for intoxication.

W. W. Saffel has sold his 16-acre place north of Salem on the Goshen road to Frank Fleming who will make it his summer home.

It is wireless talking that frequently causes trouble.

Work on the Garfield avenue high school building is again being delayed because of defective stone. The inspector refused to accept a shipment.

The Columbiana county infirmary near Lisbon has 91 inmates.

The grand stand and the new fence at Kelly park are to be painted.

The senior high school class has been granted permission to publish an annual next year.

A baby show will be a feature of Saturday's festival. Nearly 100 babies have been entered in the contest. It is a safe guess that the decision of the judges will not please all the mothers.

Seventy acres near the Country Club grounds have been leased for golf links.

John W. Post, on complaint of J. S. Deemer, has been placed under bond of $300 to keep the peace. Deemer claims that Post had threatened to do him bodily harm.

The board of education has made a gift of $845 to the Carnegie library.

NORTH JACKSON

Oct. 6—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kroeck of Hubbard visited Mr. and Mrs. C. Shively, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. DeWolfe and daughter of Pleasant Grove visited her father, Mr. Miller, who suffered a partial stroke of paralysis last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Witherspoon spent Sunday with Martin Corli in Austin township.

Mrs. Corli and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Grenamyer spent Sunday with Elmer Master in Youngstown.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Carlton of Canfield visited D. Eckenrode Sunday.

F. W. and Mrs. R. E. Flick visited in Canfield Sunday.

Z. K. Jones and R. Gault attended the G. A. R. encampment in Washington last week.

Mr. McMillen moved into the Amanda Russell house Monday and Robert Van Winkle into the house vacated by McMillen's.

While Harry Ebert was assisting Tuesday in cutting ensilage for Fred Kistler his blouse caught in the machinery and in an instant his clothing was stripped from him, only shreds of underwear and his rubber boots being left on. Only for his brother Ward, who caught him, he would have been killed. Fortunately, no bones were broken. Mr. Ebert still feels the effects of injuries received in the accident.

Sometimes a man goes so wrought up over what he is saying he thinks he has said something.

FIGHT OVER THE M'DERMOTT LAW

Party Lines Have Been Drawn in the Battle Over the "Decentralizer."

PEOPLE TO PASS UPON IT IN NOVEMBER

Students of Ohio State University Complain That Precinct Officials in Columbus Refuse to Allow Them to Register.

Special Columbus Correspondent.

Columbus, Oct. 7.—Party lines finally have been drawn in the fight over the McDermott liquor license "decentralizer." First, the Republicans met in conference and decided to make only the gerrymander a party affair. But four days later the Democrats met in conference and decided to condemn the McDermott law and extol the old Greenwald law. Now come the Republicans with another conference in the office of the governor and decide that the die of battle is to be cast owing to the Democratic deft. Thus the partisan warfare. What's it all about?

Many well-informed people don't know. That is, there are many fairly close observers of public affairs who don't understand the McDermott law contest and the nature of the pending referendum movement. Well, the row began during the late session of the legislature when the process was begun of "decentralizing" the Greenwald law, or the law licensing and regulating saloons. The Greenwald law, passed under Democratic sponsorship, was objected to by Republicans on the ground that it gave too much authority to the governor in that it permitted him to name a state board of license commissioners, who in turn had the right to name the county boards which granted saloon licenses.

Authority was too greatly "centralized," the Republican contingent held, and the McDermott law was the outcome. The McDermott law gives the governor the right to name a state liquor license inspector, but entirely abolishes the county boards and gives their duties of granting saloon licenses to a board consisting of regularly elected county officials. Moreover, with two exceptions, saloon licenses are proposed to be granted in districts instead of counties, and in most cases the proposed districts comprise several counties. This is the medium through which the McDermott measure proposes to "decentralize" the license machinery. Now, the new law has been proceeded against through the referendum and the filing of referendum petitions suspends the operation of the measure until the people pass upon it in November. Probably it is the delicacy of the liquor question as a whole that has made the parties shy of it. But their timidity is now gone and they are ready to make a campaign issue of it—it and the Sprague gerrymander.

Students Make Complaint.

The Fleming law, which allows students to vote where they attend school or college, will be given its first try-out this fall. It repeals the old law, which barred students from voting except in their home communities unless they made affidavit that they intended to make their permanent residence where they attended school or college. Ohio state university students complain that precinct officials in Columbus refused to allow them to register for the coming election, and they have complained to Secretary of State Hildebrand and Attorney General Turner about this. They have been instructed to get the necessary evidence of the alleged dereliction and after this is done the necessary steps will be taken to secure to the students the rights given them by the Fleming law.

Will Bring Suit.

Domestic corporations which failed to settle with the state for their Wilis law tax will be notified soon that if they do not remit both the amount due and with 15 per cent penalty added that they will be sued by the attorney general. The Willys Overland Automobile Co. of Toledo is the biggest Wilis law taxpayer. It paid $25,500 on a capital stock of $25,000. The Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. is the second heaviest taxpayer, its share of the tax being $38,057.

Try for Rhodes Scholarship.

Six students have taken the examination at the Ohio State university for the Rhodes scholarship at Oxford university, England. They are: William H. Gysan, Columbus; Minor S. Bates, Hiram college; Raymond K. Goshing and Paul H. Langdon, Oberlin college; Adlai C. Saunders, University of Cincinnati, and John McSweeney, Jr., of Wooster college. The man to be chosen will enter Oxford in September, 1916. The scholarship calls for an allowance of $1,500.

Parole Woman Broker.

The state board of administration has paroled Mrs. Carlotta Thompson Brown, the Cincinnati woman broker, who was sent to the penitentiary for alleged embezzlement of some $20,000 of funds of a client. Friends who obtained her release declared that the money was not embezzled but was lost in ordinary business transactions which were unavoidable. The board also paroled Dr. Lamont B. Smith of Youngstown, who was sent to the penitentiary in May 1914, to serve an indeterminate sentence for selling cocaine contrary to law.

The treatment of olives before they are ready for the table is a rather prolonged and delicate process.

If you think the neighbors are talking mean about you, why don't you take medicine, or move?

The man who goes to extremes may be either his own worst enemy or his own best friend.

The race is not always to the swift, but don't let that influence you to be slow.

CALLA

Oct. 7.—Miss Mabel Goodman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Goodman, and Ernest Sigel, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Sigel, were united in marriage at the home of the bride Wednesday evening in the presence of quite a company of relatives and friends. The young people have the best wishes of many friends.

Miss Edith Rogers was given a surprise party visit last Saturday evening when 13 of her schoolmates called to remind her of her birthday. The evening was spent with music and games. She received a number of presents. Mrs. Rogers served a daily lunch. The following attended: Geraldine Paulin, Ethel Houts, Thelma Bogner, Gertrude Miller, Golda Houts, Gertrude Knauf, Lysle Bogner, Glenn Houts, Bertran Sigel, Elmer Bush, Lester Houts, Walter and Floyd Knauf.

The Calla School Society went to Smith's Corners Wednesday and spent the day at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Hensel.

M. B. Templin is in Harrisburg, Pa., where he is having catalogues printed.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Templin entertained Harry Deitz and family, Herbert Deitz and family of Canfield and Mr. and Mrs. Grant Calvin and family of Locust Grove at dinner Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gibbons, Mrs. Laura Gibbons and Mrs. Frances Woods and Roy Rupright of Salem were entertained Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Gee of Dublin spent Sunday with their son Fred and family.

The Calla school was awarded premiums to the amount of $12.50 at the Canfield fair.

OHL'S CROSSING

Oct. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Field and daughter Anna of Youngstown spent Sunday at Wm. Piffel's.

Emery Lawrence and Mr. Brick are working in Youngstown.

Mrs. Florence Whitford of Girard is spending some time with her mother, Mrs. Everett.

Mrs. Shannon Morse and children are visiting at Charles Lorenz's.

William Piffel is seriously ill with typhoid fever.

Mrs. Martin Shears has returned from a visit with her son Charles in Salem.

It is reported that Scott Neier will have a public sale this fall and move to Mineral Ridge.

Jefferson Corli and son Chauncey were in Youngstown Saturday.

While driving to work Tuesday morning August Greier's horse became frightened at a dog, throwing Mr. Greier out and breaking the buggy and harness.

Mrs. Monroe Clay and children of Dublin recently visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Shears.

Emery Lawrence is much improved in health.

Some boys will go to see their girls all right even if they do have to walk a few miles out of the way to get there.

Eighty miles of improved road will be constructed in Columbiana county the coming year.

Niles high school tuition for non-resident pupils is to be increased from $4 to $5 a month. The cost of educating a high school pupil in that city is $50 a year.

Mrs. Mary Totten of Gustavus, aged 72, fell dead one day last week while engaged in work at her home. She had been in good health and death came without warning.

More and more employers of labor insist upon their men being sober. They know they are better workmen when they shun the saloon and that their families are given the support which they should have.

Columbiana council has passed an ordinance prohibiting the running of traction engines on paved streets unless the cleats are removed or planks laid on which to run the drive wheels.

Daniel Owens, aged 81, died Tuesday at his home near Beloit after a long illness. He was a native of the county and occupied the house where he died more than 50 years. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon.

The Bell Telephone Co. is to absorb the Warren & Niles Telephone Co., the merger to take place shortly. The independent company will retain all its long distance business. Niles expects the Bell Co. to spend $200,000 in that city on improvements during the next six months.

The output of bills printed by the government's treasury department has been increased from 275,000 to 300,000 sheets daily. In explanation of this increased activity in the making of money the secretary of the treasury says that it is because of "greatly improved business conditions."

Warren Chronicle.

Clarence Shively, a leading merchant of Rogers, was recently examined in probate court in Lisbon on charge of insanity preferred by W. W. Weltner, also of Rogers, and was found to be sane. Shively some days since threw a stone which struck Weltner on the head and an effort was made to have him indicted but the case was ignored by the grand jury.

The state tax commission has started an investigation which may result in the placing of millions of dollars worth of property throughout the state on the tax duplicate. It is claimed that very little of the millions of dollars worth of property owned by fraternal organizations is now on the tax duplicate, and that a campaign will be waged to have it listed the same as other property. Opposition to the plan has already made it self manifest, and a big fight is promised.

Frank Eckert, the oldest man in Goshen township, died Monday at his home two miles north of Garfield, aged 97 years. He was a native of Bucks county, Pa., and came to Ohio 50 years ago. The last 39 years of his life was spent on the farm where he died. He dealt largely in poultry and until recently was a great hunter, every open season finding him in field and wood. He is survived by eight children. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at Bunker Hill church in charge of Rev. Isaac Stratton with burial in the church cemetery.
